Perhaps next week we will see a 'badscience' column about a certain columnist's 1000 'organic mountain-top split hollow hair' suit or 'space-age self-shining water repellent' 100 shoes — a colossal waste of money when you can buy a 30 Tesco suit and a 3 Lidl pair of shoes, with absolutely no appreciable 'scientific' benefit from the former over the latter (and is there really a chinese peasant who splits only the hairs of the finest autumn goat? I doubt it.)
